

Recording the Soul

For this project, students will design a record cover that represents their soul. It can be something you are feeling, something you value, or a recreation of an album cover that you really enjoy. The idea is to flesh out things that are important to you on a level that runs deeper than “I like sports”, or “I watch Netflix”.

Part 1: Designing your record

- Brainstorm what is really important to you and how you can represent that with an album cover to your life
- Sketch your idea
- Get it ok'd by Sav

Part 2: Working with acrylic paint

- Practice in small sections on a scrap paper:
  - Blending 2-5 colours (play around with how much colour you put in to produce different effect)
  - Layering 1-2 times
  - Gradient 1

Part 3: Complete the record to your soul

- Begin lightly drawing the final copy

- Check-in with Sav
- Carefully paint your record
